Special

Symphony Tonight at 8

UMB's Chamber Symphony, with Robert Prins of the Wellesley Symphony Orchestra conducting, will perform in 010 Auditorium tonight 11 Dec at 8. The program includes "Le Tombeau de Couperin" by Maurice Joseph Ravel, "Siegfried Idyll" by Richard Wagner and "Pulcinella Suite" by Igor Stravinsky.

A reception will follow the concert which is free.

Covenant Campaign

On 27 Nov the Ujima African American Society and the Irish Historical Society kicked off their joint sponsorship of the campus campaign for signatures for the Covenant.

The Covenant of Justice, Equity and Harmony resolves that all people are free and have the rights to peace, harmony and respect, and commits the signer to work toward fulfillment of that promise.

Among those who took part in the ceremony in the second floor lobby of 020 were Ujima President Horace Griffith and Barbara Joyce, representing the Irish Historical Society; Father James Rafferty, Roman Catholic Chaplain, and Sara Small, Protestant Chaplain; and Chancellor and Mrs Corrigan.

The Chancellor said, "In signing this covenant today, I sign both as an individual and as Chancellor of this institution. As an individual, I pledge myself to uphold all that the Covenant stands for. As Chancellor, I pledge this institution to work to its fullest in helping to solve the difficult and complex issues that face our community today. I believe that all of us, as good people, signing individually, but working together, can forge out of the disparate groups within Boston, a new sense of racial harmony and cultural identity. Therefore, I ask you and all other members of the UMass/Boston community to join me in the signing of this Covenant."

Members of the UMB community have until 15 Dec to sign at the table in second floor lobby of 020. Each signer receives a copy of the text and a pin of the multi-colored olive branch.

Publishing

FREDERICK C GAMST, associate provost and CAS professor of anthropology, has seven items in print or galleys this term. Among them, "Toward a Method of Industrial Ethnology" in Rice University Studies vol 66 and "Way to Ways: Change from Hunting to Peasantry" in Proceedings of the Fifth International Conference on Ethiopian Studies will be published in the new year. "An Application of the Model, the Image of Limited Good, in Industrial Society" in the 39th Anniversary Issue of the Kroeber Anthropology Society Papers came out this year.

Gamst has recently had seven articles accepted for publication in the World Encyclopedia of Black Peoples.

In addition, his book, which he says is one result of fieldwork done for a five-year period on the pseudonymous "Central City and Urbana R.R.," will be published by Holt, Rinehart and Winston in 1980. The title: The Hoghead: an Industrial Ethnology of the Locomotive Engineer.

GORDON C ZAHN, CAS professor of sociology, reviewed The German Churches Under Hitler: Background,

Struggle and Epilogue by Ernst Christian Helmreich for the Oct issue of "Worldview."

CAS English Professor EMERSON MARKS' monograph Coleridge on the Language of Verse has been accepted for publication by Princeton University Press.

SUSAN EBERT, part-time CAS English instructor, is the copy editor of "Art New England," a new monthly publication designed to provide a forum for critical opinion and comprehensive listings of exhibitions, lectures and films.

Speaking

JIM CAMPEN, CAS assistant professor of economics, presented a paper on "The Small Loans Industry in Massachusetts: Competition, Regulation and Public Policy" at the New England Business and Economic Conference held in Boston last month. Prof William Lazonic of Harvard's Economics Department co-authored the paper.

JOSEPH CHECK, of the Institute for Learning and Teaching (ILT), presented a session about the Boston Writing Project at the fall conference of the New England Association of Teachers of English.

Check and PETER GOLDEN of ILT's Boston Writing Project, attended the Directors Meeting of the National Writing Project in San Francisco in Nov. JOHN J CONLON, director of the Teacher Certification Program(TCP), recently represented UMB at a meeting to organize the Massachusetts Association of Colleges for Teacher Education(MACTE), a proposed state unit of the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education. Conlon was appointed to the interim steering committee.

Also of TCP, DELORES GALLO, director of elementary education, recently participated in a panel about clinical supervision and competency-based teacher evaluation at the Harvard Graduate School of Education. She spoke specifically to the issue of preservice teachers and was a discussant during another session.

GREGORY JOHNSON, CAS associate professor of sociology, testified as an expert witness in a case before Plymouth County Superior Court in Brockton recently about the exclusion of young people which occurs as a result of the State's jury selection procedure.

DEBORA SHERMAN, director of the CPCS Center for Applied Language and Math, spoke on 7 Dec at a conference on Opening the Door to Life-long Learning about "Helping Adults Learn How to Learn." The conference was held at Middlesex Community College in Middletown, Conn.

HAROLD MAHON, CAS associate professor of physics, was invited to participate in a conference on Neighborhood Strategies in Housing on 1 Dec at Harvard's John F Kennedy School of Government. The conference was a joint effort of the MIT Department of Planning and Urban Studies and the Lt. Governor's Office.

SARA KELLEY, director Child Development Program and president of the Boston Association for the Education of Young Children, was one of 100 professionals from across the Commonwealth invited recently to participate in a conference co-sponsored by the Boston University School of Social Work, Division of Continuing Education and the Permanent Charity Fund of Boston as a culmination of the International Year of the Child.

ALAN HELMS inaugurated the 1979-80 English Department Colloquium Series Wed 5 Dec with an in-progress version of a talk he will give later this month in San Francisco at the Modern Language Association conference. Helms topic: "Hints, Faint Clues and Indirections: Homosexuality in Leaves of Grass." Respondents were Profs Sue Horton and Ron Schreiber.

Grants and Contracts

In Nov, the Office of Grant and Contract Administration reviewed and submitted seven proposals and/or contracts to funding agencies. The University received five new awards for a total of $49,800.

Those whose projects received funding are Floyd J Fowler of the Center for Survey Research for a study of housing needs of singles and an analysis of the relationship of family income to subjective well-being; Nancy Jo Hoffman, CPCS associate professor; Herbert Lipke, CAS professor of biology, for US-Israeli binational agricultural research; and Hans Van Willigen, CAS associate professor of chemistry.

These awards bring the total of new money for FY80 to more than $1,160,000.

Gallery Exhibits

Nine sculptors are exhibiting at the Community Arts Gallery at the Downtown Campus through 9 Jan. They are Jeffrey Boshert, Richard Coeur de Lion II, Zea Engstrom, Alan Lyles, Jim Morris, Jeffrey Peezick, Lorenzo Pezzatini, Trevor Richardson and Carolyn Webb. Gallery hours: Tue-Sat noon-5pm and Thur noon-8pm.

The Harbor Gallery is featuring paintings, prints and drawings by UMB students through 21 Dec. Hours: Mon-Fri 10am-5pm.

Assembly Action

On 26 Nov the Assembly approved additions to several committees and nominations to the Search Committee for Director of Continuing Education. Search Committee members are Delores Gallo, CAS; Paul Rosenkrantz, CPCS; Vincent Pivnicny, CPS; and student Joanne Sprague.

Pivnicny noted the need for more students to serve on committees, especially the Student Affairs Committee which deals with issues that directly affect them.

The next Assembly is scheduled to meet in the Small Science Auditorium (SSA) at 2:30pm Mon 28 Jan.

Graduate Council

In recent meetings the Graduate Council has considered several new proposals. They were for the Masters in American Civilization and one in Liberal Studies.
