High Tory?

This is the title of an Arnaold Beichman analysis in the March 10 Christian Science Monitor of Richard Nixon's strategy to return to the White House. 'Beichman says the role of the high or radical Tory in the White House "was enjoyed by Democrats, Wilson, Roosevelt and Kennedy and but one Republican, Theodore Roosevelt." Beichman, of the Politics Department, adds that Nixon is doing what the British Conservatives did after their 1945 landslide defeat, namely dumping their "useless ideological baggage".

Holiday Work
Guide

Thomas Franklin, (Director, Personnel) advises that this Friday is a day off for whatever personnel may be spared, although offices must be open to the public.

Employees assigned to work on Friday should be given another day off or given additional pay, according to university policy.

Payroll checks will be distributed on Thursday this week.

Social Relations
Coalition

One must give a loud hurrah (and not a last one) to the Social Relations Coalition, especially Philip Mahoney, '72, for the Christmas party sponsored for some 600 children from Roxbury, Dorchester, Chinatown, and the South End. Mahoney really did not play Santa Claus for the youngsters. He was the merry gentleman himself, complete to his own natural red beard.

Spirit of the Season

Harold Springer, Director of Training with the Columbia Point APAC puts it this way:

The agencies at Columbia Point are pulling together and we're asking the faculty, administration and student body to join in. Our purpose is to bring a little Christmas to some of the kids that Globe Santa never hears about; the kids whose stories are never written up. We've managed some outside help, but we need a lot more, especially in the way of toys. Any help you can give us will be really appreciated. If you or your group can do anything, please call Harold Springer or Ronnie Borkoski at the Columbia Point APAC. The phone is 288-0400.
