

University of Massachusetts Boston

ScholarWorks at UMass Boston

Do the Write Thing, Boston

Breaking the Cycle of Violence

1-1-2014

Do The Write Thing Essay, 2014

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarworks.umb.edu/dtwt>

Part of the Civic and Community Engagement Commons, Domestic and Intimate Partner Violence Commons, and the Educational Sociology Commons

Recommended Citation

"Do The Write Thing Essay, 2014" (2014). Do the Write Thing, Boston. 97.
<https://scholarworks.umb.edu/dtwt/97>

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Breaking the Cycle of Violence at ScholarWorks at UMass Boston. It has been accepted for inclusion in Do the Write Thing, Boston by an authorized administrator of ScholarWorks at UMass Boston. For more information, please contact scholarworks@umb.edu.

But a whisper to a scream

Blood pouring, sweat dripping, screams from all angles. Yet, when day broke no one said a thing. Then, when the whispers turned into screams again, a single man heard. He knew not of the cause, but, there was to be a solution. For in the midst of night there is a light, a light that is too strong and courageous to fight.

Violence can be gruesome, by this I mean it can be bloody and harsh it can also be physical, virtual, mental, verbal or sexual. Most people do not try to help. Even though it may not be obvious at first, after a while the signs become clear. If we want to help prevent or lesson violence we need to stand up for people. If you see someone being bullied, you may be called a snitch or a kiss up, but when you stick up for people you may prevent violence from others and self harm. I know that this line that I am about to use is used a lot and it might get annoying, or seem scripted but it's true, words hurt.