Violence is never the answer. When you fight it can effect everyone around you aswell as yourself. The cause of youth violence is when your family or other people around you influence you. That's my personal opinion. I can help my younger family members and convince them to stay off the street. If I have to I will tell them to come inside to play video games or to go outside and play basketball. Violence has effected my life by when a person shot someone over drugs and later died. This took place right outside my house.
