PROFESSOR SOTO

It is with profound regret that we announce the death, in Buenos Aires, of Professor Luis Emilio Soto. Professor Soto died in early April at the age of 68, at the height of a distinguished career as journalist, essayist, literary critic and academician. In his short stay as the University of Massachusetts, Boston, he wholly won the hearts of his students and colleagues by his devotion to them and to their work. Vigorous, incisive and gracious, Professor Soto will be remembered. The University was fortunate to have a good and generous man illuminate some of its early days.
