

4-2-2014

Two Community Collaborations with Sexual Minority Women's NGOs in Shanghai & Hong Kong

Connie Chan

University of Massachusetts Boston, connie.chan@umb.edu

Hsin-Ching Wu

University of Massachusetts Boston

Follow this and additional works at: http://scholarworks.umb.edu/ocp_posters

 Part of the Community-based Research Commons, Community Engagement Commons, Community Health and Preventive Medicine Commons, Gender and Sexuality Commons, Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, and Transgender Studies Commons, Public Health Education and Promotion Commons, and the Women's Health Commons

Recommended Citation

Chan, Connie and Wu, Hsin-Ching, "Two Community Collaborations with Sexual Minority Women's NGOs in Shanghai & Hong Kong" (2014). Office of Community Partnerships Posters. Paper 171.
http://scholarworks.umb.edu/ocp_posters/171

This Presentation is brought to you for free and open access by the Office of Community Partnerships at ScholarWorks at UMass Boston. It has been accepted for inclusion in Office of Community Partnerships Posters by an authorized administrator of ScholarWorks at UMass Boston. For more information, please contact library.uasc@umb.edu.

Two Community Collaborations with Sexual Minority Women's NGOs in Shanghai & Hong Kong

Connie Chan, PhD, with Hsin-Ching Wu, M.A
John W. McCormack Graduate School of Policy and Global Studies

Summary

Based on research with sexual minority communities in the United States, Connie Chan, professor of public policy and public affairs, conducted comparative research with community groups in Hong Kong and Shanghai, China. She provided capacity building training and resources directly to the organization which provides outreach and service to sexual minority women and girls in Shanghai, China. Professor Chan also supported Queer Sisters – an NGO that provides advocacy and community outreach to sexual minority girls and women in Hong Kong – by co-creating a needs assessment survey and helping them to interview their membership in Hong Kong.

Connie Chan collaborated with these NGOs to help produce an outreach publication and website. She also trained community members to conduct surveys and questionnaires to gather data for their reports and assisted the organizations in building capacity for funding and organizational support. Chan and her students continue to provide assistance to the group through Skype and email communication.

Goals and Objectives

- Support with production of an outreach publication and website
- Train community members to conduct surveys and questionnaires to gather data
- Build capacity for funding and organizational support to conduct interviews and data collection
- Provide technical assistance
- Translate online and print communications from Chinese to English

Results/Impacts

- Helped NGO Shanghai Lalas write grant proposals to Astrea Foundation
- Assisted in dissemination of written materials and maps to other organizations in China and in North America
- Increased capacity of NGS Shanghai Lalas group through outreach and internet presence
- Assisted Queer Sisters, Hong Kong, to gather psychological information for presentation on their radio show in Hong Kong

Approaches and Methods

- Videotaped interviews
- Online surveys

Next Steps

- Currently in process of analyzing videotaped interviews and writing summaries of findings

Student Involvement

Student type: Public Policy PhD students, Hsin-Ching Wu and Allyson Baughman
Number of students involved: 2
Number of hours contributed per student: approximately 5 hours per week
Student roles: Transcribing and translating videotapes and surveys, conducting literature reviews and other research

Funding

Funder Name: OITA, UMass Boston and McCormack Graduate School Dean's Office
Amount: $11,000
Dates of funding: January 2012-March 2013

Partnership Information

Shanghai Lalas, Shanghai, China
Queer Sisters, Hong Kong, China