Violence

Violence is quickly spreading in the city of Boston. Young kids are using drugs and alcohol. On top of them using drugs and alcohol, they are killing other teenagers their age or even younger. Teenagers acting like this most likely live in a home with bad parenting. They are apart of gangs and barely ever go to school. This usually all leads back to education. These teenage kids are hurting people they love without even noticing it. Violence needs to stop because kids are getting hurt and bullied. The kids that are using these types of violence are ruining their own lives, at a very young age. If people actually took the time to help stop violence, a lot can be done. To prevent things like this people can help get kids off of the streets and back into school. They can do that by helping kids join sports teams, clubs, or even the Boys and Girls club. Even the kids themselves can go to their local church and ask someone to help you, or maybe even your friends. Just do anything you can to get people off of the streets of Boston.
