Violence Essay

Violence has affected my life in ways I can't explain. The first that comes to my mind when I think of violence is the Boston Marathon. The Boston Marathon was something that impacted my life. FOREVER. That week I realized how united my community can be when it comes to violence. The violence act occurred April of 2013, it was the most scariest thing I have ever went through. I remember that day like it was just yesterday, I was only about 5 minutes away from the Marathon, and from home, and you heard the explosion probably about a mile away. I was with my brother, my sister, and my cousin. Once we heard the explosion the first thing I did was grab my little into my arms and ran the way home with my cousin and my brother. That day I realized how much just 2 Bombs could change my life, and how I felt at home.

There's many causes of Youth Violence, but I'll only be able to name at least one. One of the many causes of Youth Violence, is Violence itself. A teen could've been Sexually, Physically, or Emotionally abused and that could cause the person to find the wrong ~~is~~ crowd can't get enough of the pain and Violence itself to solve it. Violence itself can cause youth violence because, for example a person could have been physically abused and decided to do drugs or drink alcohol to take away the pain, once you get intoxicated you have no idea what you're doing. You could do something terribly violent, and not even know you did it.

Something I can do about youth violence is create a group. I can create a group of people who have been through things and use alcohol or drugs to get rid of the pain. I could prevent violence before it could start happening, maybe I could help those people's lives and prevent them from ruining it for the rest of their lives. They could save themselves from killing somebody, selling drugs, etc. I will probably save lives.
