Covenant Campaign

On 27 Nov the Ujima African American Society and the Irish Historical Society kicked off their joint sponsorship of the campus campaign for signatures for the Covenant. The Covenant of Justice, Equity and Harmony resolves that all people are free and have the rights to peace, harmony and respect, and commits the signer to work toward fulfillment of that promise.

Among those who took part in the ceremony in the second floor lobby of O20 were Ujima President Horace Griffin and Barbara Joyce, representing the Irish Historical Society; Father James Safferty, Roman Catholic Chaplain, and Sara Small, Protestant Chaplain; and Chancellor and Mrs Corrigan.

"In signing this covenant together, I sign both as an individual and as Chancellor of this institution. As an individual, I pledge myself to uphold all that the Covenant stands for. As Chancellor, I pledge this institution to work to its fullest in helping to solve the difficult and complex issues that face our community today. I believe that all of us, as good people, signing individually, but working together, can forge out of the disparate groups within Boston, a new sense of racial harmony and cultural identity. Therefore, I ask you and all other members of the UMass/ Boston community to join me in the signing of this Covenant."

Members of the UMB community were invited 15 Dec to sign at the table in second floor lobby of O20. Each signer receives a copy of the text and a pin of the multi-colored olive branch.
