Peace, Silence, Violence

Boston

B612001

My cousin was the type to get it by any means getting money was a must he could never let it freeze,

But you get it how you live it making money for a living up all night getting money for all 7 of his children, for that money he would run and he did it just for fun and that day he stared at the gun I know he didn't scream because he never feared a man because he bleed how I bleed

Red. 9 o'clock pronounced dead, but on the day of the funeral it really hit my head as I say my last words as he lays in his bed silent.

And you wanna talk about Violence, baby's die, Mothers cry say your innocent but you just lied.

Stories don't get told they just stay in the streets, so when a murder comes up no one knows who, how, and when people have beef.

Violence is no joke over something that you owe, after that gun goes off your soul is drifting with the smoke.

This just makes me mad and sad, they took one cousin that I treated like a dad.

Theres always going to be violence no matter how much good in the streets, but I'ma stop taking because you need to rest in peace.
