Violence

Violence is not the answer. It doesn't solve problems, it just creates more. Once you start using it to solve the problem, you start becoming the problem. Instead of using it, try to talk, try to do anything you can to not use it. Your family probably doesn't want you to use violence. They probably don't want you to hurt other people. Instead of violence, try doing something else. Get a punching bag to get your anger out. Try boxing, try different sport, anything helps. When you use violence, you hurt other people instead of getting your problems solved. You're creating more problems for yourself when you use violence.
