

1-1-2014

Do The Write Thing Essay, 2014

Follow this and additional works at: <http://scholarworks.umb.edu/dtw>

 Part of the Civic and Community Engagement Commons, Domestic and Intimate Partner Violence Commons, and the Educational Sociology Commons

Recommended Citation

"Do The Write Thing Essay, 2014" (2014). Do the Write Thing, Boston. Paper 107.
<http://scholarworks.umb.edu/dtw/107>

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Breaking the Cycle of Violence at ScholarWorks at UMass Boston. It has been accepted for inclusion in Do the Write Thing, Boston by an authorized administrator of ScholarWorks at UMass Boston. For more information, please contact library.uasc@umb.edu.

~~Elijah Bell - Jeffers~~

B613007

do the write thing

When I see violence

When I see violence I see cowards afraid, they don't know how to solve their situation. They take their anger and frustration out on other people not thinking about the consequences. These people become just like them and the circle goes on and on and it doesn't stop. Sometimes there may be problems at home but rarely anyone asks "what's wrong" "why so under the weather?"

When I see violence I see children pushed into the circle. The role models on TV giving the message that it's okay. When wrestler man slams a chair on somebody's head the crowd goes wild but when Jimmy slams a chair on his sisters head and accidentally kills her jimmy goes to jail, and his crowd is the court. Jimmy's in a dank dark prison cell for life, while wrestler man is in a luxurious house.

When I see violence I see a fight within yourself not knowing what to do. Constant frustration, mental irritation. Yourself and your Id, fighting an endless battle. Should you rob that bank across the street, or should you stay home out of trouble? Should you take cookies when mom tells you not to, or should you do what you're supposed to do? It goes on and on and on and finally you give up in into your Id, your lower self. You let your id consume you....

But you can always change like Darth Vader, in the end when he saved Luke. Make better role models for our youth, so they won't end up like Jimmy. Help kids with stuff going on at home don't let them become cowards, become bullies. Help end the endless battle between the little devil on your shoulder and the angel. So come on, let's start right now and make a change.